UPDATED!

FEDERAL PROJECT MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATE'S AND MASTER'S CERTIFICATES

In partnership with The George Washington University (GW), Strategy Execution offers two federal project management certificate paths. The first allows you to obtain an Associate's Certificate in Federal Project Management. This certificate exhibits your knowledge and skills within the federal project management discipline. The second is a Master's Certificate in Federal Project Management from Strategy Execution and GW.

Obtaining the Master Certificate in Federal Project Management allows you to add GWCFPM credentials after your name, and highlights your expertise in the field of federal project management. The GWCFPM (The George Washington University Certified Federal Project Manager) certification, established by Strategy Execution in association with the GW School of Business, is a recognized credential in federal project management. A GWCFPM practitioner has relevant core federal project management knowledge through the successful completion of at least seven Strategy Execution courses that lead to a Master's Certificate in Federal Project Management with a Concentration in Federal Project Management.

In today's government environment, results matter and budgets are tighter than ever. Only checking the box through training and certification won't guarantee the results you want, because concepts and theories don't lead to project success. People with the right skills and practical knowledge do. Strategy Execution works with people and organizations that want to adopt best practices and minimize the risk of failure. We believe the right learning and development initiative that centers on the measurement of mission outcomes, can help you do both, and get the certification you need in the process.

Completing all 4 core courses required for the Master's Certificate in Federal Government Project Management will also fully satisfy the training requirements for the FAC-P/PM Level 1 certification. For more details on FAC-P/PM training please go to www.strategyex.com/facppm.
